

INVITATION TO ATTEND THE CYCLE OF WEBINARS ABOUT

PRECARITY IN ACADEMIA

The ISE Researchers' Careers Task Force has been conducting a long reflection on the organisation of academic research in Europe, with a focus on the systemic structural changes that will be necessary for Europe to remain an attractive place to do science, and a competitive economic and scientific powerhouse. To facilitate a constructive discussion around these topics, ISE will be running a series of three webinars specifically designed for policy makers, funders, universities, international organisations, and journalists. More information about each webinar can be found at the registration links below.

European funding: finding solutions to systematic challenges

Moderator: Chloe Hill (EGU). Panelists: Maria da Graça Carvalho (MEP), Mariya Ivancheva (EASA), Wim van Saarloos (Leiden University), Rachel Coulthard-Graf (EMBL).

18 February 2021, 2pm - 3:30pm CET REGISTER HERE

Research assessment practices

Moderator: Mathew Tata (Eurodoc). Panelists: Sarika Wilson (The Guild), Stephen Curry (DORA), Cecilia Cabello Valdés (ERAC).

4 March 2021, 2pm - 3:30pm CET REGISTER HERE

Research grant evaluation

Moderator: Renaud Jolivet (MCAA). Panelists: Frédéric Sgard (OECD), Catherine McCammon (ERC panel member), James Morris (Science Europe), Kasper Gossink (Dutch Funding Agency - NWO).

18 March 2021, 2pm - 3:30pm CET REGISTER HERE

ABOUT ISE: The Initiative for Science in Europe (<https://initiative-se.eu>) is an independent platform of 16 European Learned Societies and Research Organizations operating within different disciplines and across sectors. ISE supports all fields of research at a European level, involves researchers in the design and implementation of European science policies, and advocates strong independent scientific advice in European policy making.